SPEAKING

by

Jimmie
Dlugos

Football petitions are one thing. Petitions requesting technical courses of study are another—and of much greater importance to all concerned. I say 'hats off' to the members of the Junior class for leading the recent stampede on Dean Tillott's office in Fones Hall to demand immediate action on their request for more detailed courses in the fields of business administration, management, retailing, and the various accounting fields.

By reading the recent report issued by our government on higher education I think you will find that President Truman is on their side.

One dozen American Beauties to KAY for doing such a wonderful job in co-ordinating my activities as SCRIBE editor with those of the Public Relations office.

An open letter to Vice-President Littlefield:

"NO," seems to be the unanimous answer to the question. "Does the Snack Bar really serve the students."

The space factor does not permit the printing of many individual opinions, but the following are typical of the comments made to me since that question was printed in this column two weeks ago.

"Lack of proper facilities . . ."
—Rose Miller.

"Inefficient system . . . change of a few personnel would alleviate the situation . . ."
—Paul Franko.

"Not enough help during rush periods . . . students shouldn't be allowed to study in there."
—Ev Matson.

Their answers, seem to indicate an immediate need for a thorough and complete investigation of all phases of the Snack Bar problem. Such an investigation should include an auditing of the many records involved to determine, among other things, why is it that:

1. More and better trained help are not hired.

Fones Great Humanitarian

According to the Encyclopedia Britannica, " . . . Dr. A. C. Fones, founder of oral hygiene . . . was responsible for the most important development of the dental art appearing in the period from 1911 to 1922."

In other words, tonight when you brush your teeth before you go to bed and you are mindfull that clean teeth mean good teeth, and when in the next six months you take a trip to the dentist to have your teeth cleaned and some good looking blonde says "open wider, please" we can thank Dr. Fones for this important step in the world of dentistry.

Death came suddenly to Dr. Fones while attending the theatre March 16, 1938, and the city mourned the man whom leading dentists of the country called the "best known dentist in the world."

An editorial in the Bridgeport Post, March 16, 1938, best expresses the fulfillment of a memorial such as Fones Hall, now a part of the campus of the University of Bridgeport, when the editor said, "There ought to be a monument erected to Dr. Fones by the children of this generation who have benefitted from his great services over a long period of years. Perhaps when they are grown to adult stature and appreciate what he did for them the monument will be forthcoming."

As students of the University of Bridgeport we should feel rightly honored to be one of the first, if not the first, to recognize this great interna-

An Editorial — The Men Are Ready and Waiting, Sir

"No pluckier football organization can be found anywhere than the Fairfield Avenue school. The entire football squad consists of 14 men. How it scrimmages is more than a mystery, but it fights like a demon on the field and deserves a lot more credit than it receives," so said Ed Shugrue, when the newly founded Junior College of Connecticut was organizing its first football team in 1929.

Despite their severe handicaps they were enthusiastic and played almost every game without relief, the reports kept on file in the Public Relations office read. In one clash with Warren Harding high school, JCC was defeated 32-6. However, Warren Haring had 36 reserves to five for Junior College.

When the Junior College opened in 1927, in a statement made to the Bridgeport Telegram, Dr. E. Everett Cortright said, "This institution will urge the formation of a junior inter-collegiate league which will schedule contests in all three major sports—baseball, basketball, and football."

The same year an advisory committee was organized to support the college in carrying on an athletic program covering football, baseball, and track, with each of these under the direction of a coach.

In 1929, the Junior College had only 62 men from which it could select material for a football team. Today, with 1161 men enrolled in the day division alone, we should have more than enough for a good team. We should have enough, if they are properly trained and coached, to produce one of the best squads in New England.

lege still hoped to reestablish football on a permanent basis, despite the fact that occasionally games had to be forfeited because there weren't enough uninjured players remaining to place a full team on the field. A spokesman for the college again stated that the school was in an excellent position to develop a successful football and basketball schedule.

Today, we are assured of basketball; now about football?

Faculty Approval

Final Faculty approval on the Student Government Constitution was given at a joint meeting of the faculty and the student committee Tuesday night. The constitution was delivered to the Board of Trustees for consideration.

Fones Hall, Addition to University

The University of Bridgeport has come of age. On Monday, January 5, the University opened classes at the new $300,000 building on the Marina Park campus.

This building was named in honor of Dr. Alfred C. Fones, noted Bridgeport dentist, who died in 1938. Dr. Fones was nationally famous for his work in dental hygiene, and his program, which has been adopted by the Bridgeport school system, later became a model imitated all over the nation.

Contains Library

Fones Hall occupies a total floor space of 25,000 square feet. The library, occupying an entire wing of the building, is 40 feet by 115 feet, over three times larger than the former library on the Fairfield campus. There are two laboratories in the building, one for general biology, the other for advanced biology. In the basement there are five classrooms, and, in the east wing, the library stockroom. Seven classrooms, and the library itself are on the first floor. The second floor is now being used as practice room for the band, but the six rooms there will soon be made into offices.

The new building has one lecture hall, 40 by 70 feet, and it is now being used by Mr. Byerly's music class. All classrooms are about the same size, 20 by 30 feet. The snack bar is 25 by 60 feet, and is under the direction of Miss Marilyn Murphy.

The university secured the original building from the Veteran Educational Facilities program. We have doubled its size by adding a basement. A total of 125 day division courses plus 48 evening courses are being taught in Fones Hall.

Classes Shifted

Beginning with the Spring semester, there will be a complete rearrangement of class schedules, with liberal arts at the Marina campus, and business administration at the Fairfield Avenue campus.

A formal dedication of the new building will take place Sunday, February 8, at 3 p.m.

H. S. Truman Says, "Me Too," to B.U. Community Policy

"American colleges and universities must envision a much larger role for higher education in national life. They can no longer consider themselves merely the instrument for producing an intellectual elite; they must become the means by which every citizen, youth, and adult is enabled and encouraged to carry his education, formal and informal, as far as his native capacities permit," said the report of President Truman's Commission on higher education.

The report insisted that higher education act promptly to reorient its educational programs towards the needs of our democracy, with sweeping changes in curricula needed to give students an opportunity to understand and practice citizenship, little of which is now available to them.

Emphasizing the important role that schools and colleges could play in the nation, the report declared that in a real sense the future of civilization depended on the direction taken not only in the distant future, but in the days immediately ahead.

Commenting on this report, President Halsey, in a special interview,

Dr. Gill Has Led Interesting Life As Language Prof and Businessman

Dr. John G. Gill, a new professor of Romance Languages at the University of Bridgeport has had an interesting and varied career. His experience should be of great assistance to the University and its students.

Dr. Gill received his B.A. at the University of Ottawa, Kansas; his M.A. and Ph.D. in Romance Languages from Howard University.

He has taught Romance Languages at the Case School of Applied Science, Cleveland, Ohio; Howard, Columbia, and at Trinity University in Hartford, Connecticut.

Dr. Gill has been associated with the business world as sales representative for the National Cash Register Company in Argentina.

Later on, Dr. Gill established his own business entitled "La Oficina Moderna" in Panama City, Panama.

Pick Your SWEETHEART February 14th

His business consisted of selling steel office furniture and office equipment to Latin America. He had a very successful business career and when he sold his business, it was bought by his employees.

After selling his business, he and his wife travelled through Europe for a year. Prior to his business career he had travelled in France and Germany in order to study language.

Upon his return to the United States, he became connected with the General Fireproofing Company of Youngstown, Ohio, in the capacity of export agent, which included traveling in Latin America and Europe.

At the outbreak of World War II, he joined the U. S. Maritime Commission and served in the purser's division. He retired from the Maritime Commission in November, 1946, and returned to his first love, teaching, at the University of Bridgeport in June, 1947.

Dr. Gill likes both the students and his position at the University of Bridgeport very much. For those who are taking or will take Spanish, Dr. Gill suggests that the student should spend at least one hour a day on his Spanish. He advises that study be consistent and consecutive, not broken up or done all in one day.

He believes the student should pursue his studies in a Romance Language with personal interest and not because it is a required subject. Knowledge of Spanish, claims Dr. Gill, will assist an individual towards a successful and lucrative career.

TRUMAN SAYS

for the SCRIBE, said, "The residents of Bridgeport should be proud of the fact that civic leaders anticipated some of the recommendations of President Truman's Commission on Higher Education by 20 years, in having established the Junior College of Connecticut in 1927 as a community college to serve community needs. Furthermore, in our recent expansion program which has been both horizontal and vertical, the University of Bridgeport is ideally organized to serve these new present and future educational needs, because in addition to offering junior college work to Bridgeport students, our institution now can offer work on the senior college level, and eventually, even on a graduate level."

Great Books, Illustration

An excellent example of a university serving the adult population of the community is the Great Books class sponsored by the Burroughs Public Library and the University of Bridgeport, and offered free of charge.

At the first meeting of this class, whose discussions are to be led by Dr. Charles B. Goulding and Mr. John Kearns, more than three times the number of students originally planned for, appeared and showed much interest in the class. As a result, plans are now being made to expand the facilities available so that all who are interested can attend these classes. More than 100 registered for the course, and 160 showed up.

The Great Books courses is the latest addition to the large variety of courses previously offered in the night division of the university. These courses were offered with the intent to supply the desire of many persons, in the Bridgeport area, for schooling which would normally be unavailable to them. Education for the everyday person has been a long standing policy of the university, and the prosecution of this policy has been evidenced by the night school.

"There are times when college administrations as well as other factions peculiar to a university campus need some plain talking to, and upon such occasions a alert, fearless, and vigorous press is a godsend to the student body."

Who Will Reign As Sweetheart At Coming Dance?

The Sweetheart dance, an informal affair, sponsored by the Junior class, will be held Saturday evening, February 14, in the ballroom of the Stratfield hotel. A Sweetheart, who will reign at the affair, will be chosen by election of the student body in the very near future.

It is anticipated that many merchants throughout the city will donate prizes to be awarded to the Campus Sweetheart.

Music for the occasion will be furnished by Bill Tennant and his Society Orchestra. The dancing will begin at 8:30 and continue until 1:00 a.m.

Pi Omega Chi Is New Campus Frat

Another men's social fraternity, Pi Omega Chi, has been organized at the University of Bridgeport and has been approved by University authorities. C. Harold Schwartz of Bridgeport is president of the new organization, with Walter Banker, Bridgeport, vice president; William Kennedy, Milford, secretary; John Karlac, Seymour, treasurer; Gene Hoffman, West Hartford, historian; Anthony Corvo, Waterbury, corresponding secretary.

Other Bridgeport members are Alvin Krassner, Joseph Bialore, Milton Gellis, Marvin Stolberg, Harold Watman, Norman Chohat.

Campus Communique

A bowling party will be held on January 17, at the Pequonnock Alleys, from 9-12 p.m. The price of admission will be $.50 and grand and booby prizes will be awarded. Refreshments will be served, so turn out, all you social butterflies.

The committees chosen by the Student Activities Financial Committee to handle student activity funds consist of an athletic committee with Ernest Coudreau, Mathew Morris, and Elaine Robertson; a club committee consisting of Thomas Walsh, John Cox, and Joyce Sherman; a publications committee composed of Herbert Klein, Thomas MacGannon, and Frank Perry; and a social activities committee consisting of Joseph Wachtman, Robert Donaldson and George Ganim.

The University of Bridgeport now has a riding club with nine members who meet every Sunday afternoon without regard for weather conditions. The members are Edward Petro, Marion Percelay, Lee Ashman, Major Ashburn, Neill Horton, Scottie MacBride, Burton Jacobson, Rosalind Klein, and Wilma Jeanne Bryant.

The Christmas candlelight service, "Why the Chimes Rang," was a fitting and beautiful tribute to the holiday season. The program included three solos, "No Candle Was There and No Fire," by Gerry Wilkins and "O Holy Night," and "The Birthday of the King," by Doris Bauersfeld. The cast of "Why the Chimes Rang" includes Kay Roche, Ted Williams, Gerry Wilkins, soloists, Fred Bottom, minister, Ted Williams, minister, Priscilla Haslett, narrator, and Burt Jacobson, Thomas McCabe, Frank Driscoll, Jack Harwood, Elin Corben, Kay DeWitt, Mr. Byerly and Miss Faye Jones directed the production.

The members of the Sigma Phi Alpha fraternity recently received their fraternity pins. Raymond Forhman handled all of the business details and ordered the pins from the Burr Patterson and Auld Company, of Detroit, Michigan.

There is now more room for people to eat at the West Hall Dining Room. As a result of the latest switch of dormitory students many places were left vacant and the school administration feels that many students and faculty members would like to fill the empty places.

Norman Hansen reports that the college ski club has made two very successful trips since the Christmas recess.

Forty-five new classes are being started for Evening Session students. They include wage incentives, production control, investments, statistical quality control, all of which have never been offered here before.

Registration for all evening students will be from Feb. 2-6, at the Main Building.

All sophomores and faculty members are urged to make appointments now to have their pictures taken for the Wistarian. Photos will be taken in Simonds House, and the sitting fee is $2.00.

Group pictures of classes and clubs will be taken at the beginning of the Spring term.

The January payment of 50c is due on year-book pledges. There will be absolutely NO year-books sold after subscriptions close next month, Feb. 10. No outright sales will be made in May when the year-book comes out.

A new member, Rosalind Klein, has been added to the staff to do art work.

Scribe Receives Award

The Scribe has received word from the Thirty-sixth National Newspaper Critical Service of the Associated Collegiate Press at the University of Minnesota that last year's second semester issues received a First Class rating.

This is an outstanding honor for the paper and congratulations are in order for last year's editorial staff headed by Rosa Racamato, and Ginger Waldman.

2. A wider variety of foods and sundries are not offered.
3. A system to enable serving the first man FIRST is not used.
4. An enormous profit is not shown from Snack Bar sales.

Perhaps some of our evening business administration students would volunteer to serve on a three or four-man committee to do the preliminary investigations, and help the experts which apparently will be needed to solve THE PROBLEM.

Perhaps the most important of all the rules and regulations concerning student use of the new building, is the following:

"Smoking is positively and absolutely prohibited in Fones Hall or in the Fones Hall Annex, with the exception of the men and women's lavatories in Fones Hall and the snack bar in Fones Annex. Violators of the no smoking regulation face suspension."

Smoking is not permitted in the Faculty offices, but instructors are allowed to smoke in the Men's Faculty Room, the Women's Faculty Room, and in the Faculty Lounge.

Will an honor system work in this particular university?

The situation is regrettable and unfortunate. But there is no way out. There is no alternative. DEADLINES MUST BE KEPT.

The make-up editor must have in his possession, or know the details of all articles that are to be in the SCRIBE a full week before the issue date. All articles must be in the SCRIBE office by 5:00 p.m., on Thursday of the week preceding that in which the SCRIBE comes out. Information received later cannot be printed.

(Please note that the verb used in the preceding sentence was CANNOT and not WILL NOT.)

The next SCRIBE deadline will be Thursday, February 12.

It is not widely known in this city, but a handful of veterans in Devon are currently putting the finishing touches to a $40,000 clubhouse which they have raised themselves during the past year. And on which, last week, they owed less than $5,000; half to themselves and the remaining to their friends throughout the town.

If 100 fellows, your age and mine, can raise and pay for such a building in less than a year's time what couldn't the 850 vets here at the school do for the university if they were organized?

The Student Council can be instrumental in organizing our student body if the powers delegated to the Council are sufficient to meet and overcome the many problems which it must face.

Have you heard about one of our young co-eds who, in doing some research for a term paper, hit the jackpot?

In desperation because her friends couldn't supply her with needed material, she turned to a fellow standing nearby... Sure he had some notes on the subject.

"Were they good?" she innocently demanded.

"They better be," was his reply, "I teach it."

Remember senior year in high school, the week year-books came out... all the fun you had autographing your picture in your friends' year-books? Here's a chance, Sophomores, to go through it again by simply taking a minute out to have your picture taken before the semester ends. Details can be had at the Public Relations office.

As a means of co-ordinating the efforts of the various groups on the campus new councils have been proposed by the numerous students interested. The first, an inter-fraternity council, has already held an organizational meeting. Another to be formed is an all-dormitory council.

The proposed student extra-curricular activities budget totals some $16,000, but the Board of Trustees have estimated that a much lower budget would be sufficient. Some clubs and organizations are going to feel pinched — if the student committees can ever get together to vote their budgets.

At a meeting called last week for that purpose ONLY THREE out of the TWELVE committee members appeared. They were Matty Morris, Tom Walsh, and John Cox. NONE OF THOSE STUDENTS ELECTED LAST FALL TO SERVE ON THAT COMMITTEE WERE PRESENT. Some have never made an appearance at any of the meetings.

Ray Folkman, SCRIBE business manager, and myself are currently preparing a petition which will permit funds left in the SCRIBE bank account at the end of the school year, if there are any, to be carried over to the following year.

The many plans for bigger and better SCRIBES can never materialize unless those in charge are allowed to publish the paper as a separate business enterprise.

One or two of the "smaller matters" that some member of the faculty thought "should and could" easily be corrected on our student council constitution have turned into veritable mountain—thus causing a bottleneck in the constitution's progress toward reaching the Board of Trustees.

As this went to press, plans were being made for a joint meeting of the student faculty committees to be held January 13. President Halsey was expected to conduct the meeting.

It might be well to keep the names of the committee members in mind when you make your nominations to fill the council seats once the constitution is approved. They are Chris Parrs, John Cox, Robert Donaldson, Thomas McGannon, Daniel Greaney, Renee Bauer, Fred De Giacomo, Julian Short, Mel Levy, Robert Ball, Stanley Viantes, and Ray Clark.

Would you like to know more of the details relative to the proposed Student Council and Student Government Association? Then contact your class president and suggest he hold a class meeting early in February to explain the details of it.

AS I SEE IT...

By JERRY BLOCK

Ed. Note: The statistics given below are based on games up to and including the Hill College game of Jan. 6.

Cage Chatter

Tom Casimiro set a new team record when he caged 12 straight free throws. His season's record, at this writing, stands at 15 conversions in 16 tries... Bob Kuzma has racked up 99 points in six games to lead the team in scoring. "Big" Ed Lengyel is second with 89 markers and Captain Johnny Barron, who has played a spectacular floor game, has scored 69 tallies. Bob Friedman, who "never fouled out of a game before the Hofstra tilt," was banished from three successive contests for doing what he "never does"... The Glinesmen have established themselves as the top scorers in the state with 421 points in six games, averaging 70 markers per outing... A good crowd turned out to see Bridgeport play New Haven Teachers College at the K. of C., December 17, but many more people could have gotten in the arena to see the game... Coach Glines scheduled two practices for the boys during the Christmas recess. He held one drill and cancelled the other due to bad weather.

I have been requested to urge students to join the swimming team. There should be no need to recruit men for the squad at this time. At the beginning of the semester, I saw the names of at least fifty prospects on a list in the athletic office. Why haven't these people reported to practices or meetings? There are less than ten men on the squad at present and a good inter-collegiate team consists of at least 25 swimmers. Two meets have been scheduled for the end of February and a few others are tentatively booked. If not enough students respond to this notice, there will not be a swimming team at the University of Bridgeport this year. Those who are interested should see Mr. Plumb at the Y.M.C.A., on State Street, any Tuesday, Thursday, or Friday, between 6 and 7 p.m., or contact Coach Glines in the athletic office.

Bob Kuzma and Tom Casimiro worked the old sleeper play on a seasoned Arnold quintet. I will explain the play for the benefit of those people who are unfamiliar with it.

The referee handed Casimiro the ball to take out underneath his own basket. Kuzma walked over to Tom and said, "Let me take it out." Thinking Bob was going to take the ball out, the Arnold player relaxed his guard. Kuzma, without stepping out of bounds, dribbled around his befuddled opponent and scored an easy two-pointer. The fact that the referee gave the ball to Casimiro, who put the ball in play, made the ruse legal.

Bridgeport Quintet Wins Five Straight; Faces U-Conn Tonight, Hillyer Jan. 23

Face U-Conn Here Tonight

The University's basketball team meets the University of Connecticut's Waterbury Extension tonight at the K. of C. Hall. In the last outing between these two teams the UB five took the game easily by the score of 75 to 45. However, the boys from the Brass City will be doing everything they can to even the count tonight.

To Play Heavy Schedule

The UB basketball club will be playing a heavy schedule within the next two weeks. After its game with the U-Conn Extension tonight, the Glinesmen will face Fort Trumbull here Monday night. The Fort Trumbull club is another U-Conn Extension and they promise to be pretty tough for the local team.

On Wednesday night, January 21, the team travels to New Haven for its return match with New Haven State Teachers. In the last contest, the future pros fought up to the last whistle, finally succumbing by the score of 76-64. Ogle and Whitbread made it difficult for our boys during the early part of the game.

Two nights later, on the 23, Hillyer J.C. invades the Knights of Columbus hall for its game here. If this club is as good as last year's five, the home town fans ought to see a pretty good game.

Make Five Straight

After its disheartening defeat at the hands of a strong Hofstra club, the Bridgeport U five bounced back to take four straight; three of them on successive nights.

Its first victory was against a strong Arnold college five which fought a dying battle up to the very last second of play. The score was 72-67.

On the following evening the fast-cutting New Haven State Teachers came down and did not leave until they proved to the local boys that they had been in a tough basketball game. The score, 76-64.

On the Thursday, they traveled to Waterbury where they took an easy victory over the U-Conn Extension there, 75-45.

After the Christmas recess, the Glinesmen traveled to Woonsocket, R.I., and took up where they left off by taking a team from Hill College by the score of 63-46.

ALL-STARS TIE PARKWOODS IN I. B. LEAGUE

After a long Christmas recess, the Intramural Basketball League resumes competition with the Parkwoods and the All-Stars tied for first place. The pace setters have identical records of two wins against no set-backs.

The All-Stars are led by Feeney and Tishler, who both scored 16 points for the squad in their last game. Shaw who is the playmaker of the Stars, deserves much of the credit for the team's success.

The high scoring Parkwoods, who have tallied 123 times, have Dworkin and Watman as their big guns.

The standings as of January 8 are:

	W	L	PC
Parkwoods	2	0	1.000
All-Stars	2	0	1.000
Whitely House	1	1	.500
Faculty	0	1	.000

LENGYEL NETS 2 AS U.B. TOTALS 69

Scribe cameraman Bill Wolk caught Ed Lengyel in action as he soared high into the air during the latter part of the game with New London, January 9. Victory was fifth straight for Glinesmen, who maintained their 70 point per game average by taking New London, 69-42.

UB Triumphs Over New London, 69-42

In their first Junior College Conference game of the season, the University of Bridgeport basketball team romped to a 69-42 victory over New London Junior College at the Knights of Columbus hall last Friday night.

When the Thamesmen jumped out to an early three to two lead, it looked as if Bridgeport who had previously won four straight, was in for a tough tussle. The Glinesmen, however, unleashed their fast break and sharpened their shooting eyes to take a commanding 34-17 lead at intermission.

As the second half got underway, Coach Glines cleared his bench, and the subs, alternating with the regulars, extended the Bridgeport lead until it reached 27 points at the end of the game.

Tom Casimiro led the Purple and White scorers with 14 markers and was followed closely by Bob Kuzma with 13. Ed Lengyel and Captain Johnny Barron shared third place, scoring honors with 12 tallies each. Holloran, of New London, was high man for the evening with 17 points.

A partisan crowd of about 200 persons encouraged the local quintet to surpass its average of 70 points per game. The fans had to be satisfied with an impressive win and 69 tallies, however, because the boys weren't quite able to cage a ball to break an even seventy.

"Stable" Opens at Fones Hall Annex

The "Stable," the new student lounge located in the rear of Fones Hall opened January 5; its unique atmosphere exceeding the expectations of all who have visited it during its first week of operation.

The distinctive characteristics of the building, formerly a private stable, have been retained, polished, and modernized to simulate the atmosphere of public dining and dancing establishments.

A juke box is to be installed in the very near future and, anticipating that many students will gather at the Stable for dancing and refreshments, the management has decided to remain open until 10 p.m. every Friday evening in accommodation.

No Parking, Please

Parking of cars is not permitted on Ingleside Place. It is a private street and the University has agreed not to trespass upon it.

Coach Glines Has Wide Athletic Past

Not many University students ever bother climbing to the third floor of South Hall. Those who do will meet, as did your sports scribe, one of our little known faculty members, Herbert E. Glines. Mr. Glines is the University's Director of Athletics and for the third consecutive year will coach the varsity basketball team.

Coach Glines came to the Junior College of Connecticut in 1944. He came here directly from 40 months' service in the U. S. Army. Up to last year, Mr. Glines had led the Basketball team to a won and lost record of 21 and 11. Last years team finished second in the Junior College Conference.

Has Wide Experience

Mr. Glines has a wide athletic background to draw on to aid in carrying out his duties as Athletics Director and Basketball Coach. He played varsity football, basketball, and lacrosse for the University of New Hampshire. In his senior year, 1941, he captained the New Hampshire team to win the New England championship. In both his senior and junior years he was elected to the All-New England lacrosse team. After graduation, he coached high school basketball in Massachusetts.

In addition to his coaching duties, Mr. Glines teaches mathematics. He is working, at present, toward a master's degree at Columbia, which he expects to receive in June, 1948.

University of Bridgeport students, meet Coach Glines.

Addition To Staff

A new addition to the staff of instructors at the University of Bridgeport is Mr. Robert Mayhew. Mr. Mayhew received his B.A. from Michigan State Normal and his M.A. at Wayne University.

After graduating he worked for the federal government in many important positions. He worked in the office of Price Administration as an experimental research expert, and also did social science research for the Federal Housing Authority. Because of his good work in that field of endeavor, he became supervisor of the Federal Planning and Housing Authority in Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois.

Mr. Mayhew is also a celebrity in his own right. He played with a Chinese Junior Davis Cup team in '37 and '39, but was defeated in the first playoffs. He still retains his interest in tennis and hopes to do his share in developing the tennis team of the University of Bridgeport this spring.

Mr. Mayhew's family, a wife and a ten year old son, are living in Chicago at present; however, as soon as he locates adequate living quarters, he intends to move them to Bridgeport. Mr. Mayhew is the proud father of a very intelligent son. His boy has been featured as a quiz kid on the Mutual Network and on WABC, on the Quiz Down program. His son also is a better than average artist.

For Your Information

By PRESIDENT JAMES H. HALSEY

This is the second series of articles regarding various phases of the University about which students have raised questions. The topic to be discussed in this article is the academic standing of our College of Arts and Science and our College of Business Administration. This is a matter of importance to all students enrolled in these colleges and especially to those planning to enter graduate schools after completing baccalaureate programs here.

Last spring at the time the General Assembly approved our Charter as the University of Bridgeport, we sought and obtained approval from the State Department of Education to offer higher education studies on the upper division level. The State Department of Education is by law the accrediting agency of all institutions of higher education in the State. As is customary in all such cases, approval was then given to us on a tentative basis because there were no senior college programs actually in operation here. Now that our third-year programs are functioning, an inspection committee of the State Department of Education will visit us sometime soon and confirm this tentative approval into permanent approval.

As one of the requirements of the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools is that an institution must have graduated two classes before being considered for membership, we shall not be able to apply for admission to the Association as the University of Bridgeport before the fall of 1950. I would, however, call attention to the fact that as the Junior College of Connecticut, we do hold membership in the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. In this regard we are one of nine out of approximately fifty junior colleges in this region to be so recognized. Furthermore, by virtue of this membership, I am at present serving as a member of the eight-member Committee of this association which considers all applications for membership from colleges and universities.

Since the previous article in this series listed the numerous memberships and other forms of recognition which have been bestowed on the Junior College of Connecticut, it is not necessary to repeat them here. It should be mentioned, however, that because the Junior College of Connecticut has been approved by all important national and regional associations and agencies as a result of our outstanding record as a junior college, the recognition of our senior colleges will thereby be materially facilitated.

Halsey Recalls Teaching Days In France When Prince Philip Was Pupil

Philip Mountbatten, or more correctly the Duke of Edinburgh and husband of Princess Elizabeth of England, was once a pupil of James H. Halsey, president of the University of Bridgeport. It has been learned on the campus. Long after the fanfare of publicity that attended the royal wedding last month, President Halsey disclosed his former association with the duke in a casual conversation.

Halsey reminisced about Philip's school days when he was a student at the MacJannet School for Boys at St. Cloud, France, when he was six years old and Mr. Halsey was an instructor at the exclusive boys' school.

The blue-eyed, blond Prince Philip (of Greece) was transported daily to the suburban Paris school by liveried chauffeurs. When his escorts had departed, Philip took off his coat and became another rough and tumble companion of his schoolmates, Mr. Halsey said. In reporting for classes he gave his name as "Prince Philip."

"I know you are Prince Philip, but what do you want us to call you?" Halsey asked. The young prince insisted that he be called only "Prince Philip."

The University president, who helped mold Philip's character and disciplined him the same as other students in the school, recalled that one day Prince Philip lost his silver whistle, treasured gift from King George V. Fellow students, including Prince

Michael of Rumania, close schoolboy friend of Philip's, expressed such concern that a school holiday was called. Pupils deployed in military skirmishes in an adventure hunt for the whistle until it was found.

"Why didn't you mention it last month when the royal wedding was front-page news?" President Halsey was asked.

"Oh, I guess I just didn't attach any importance to it, he replied, and any way instead of one student, I now have 2,500 to think about."

Christmas Ball, Success

Congratulations are in order to the Christmas Ball Committee. The dance was a wonderful success and points the way toward bigger and better gatherings. It's remarkable the way a name-band injects life into a college dance.

BREATH OF LIFE

A student touches upon a familiar theme in the first of the following offerings, "Drinking Song"; and becomes somewhat metaphysical in the finely formed, second poem, "When Passion Rules."

DRINKING SONG

For all the care that women show
Their hearts are never true,
Their lips may smile, their eyes may glow—
'Tis all a witches' brew!

And yet we men applaud the grace
Of form that fills the eye—
Better the folly with disgrace
Than let a chance slip by!

Our passions all may be at odds,
We care not how we die;
The gods of love are playful gods,
Whose words are "Always try."

So let the women flaunt their lures,
We'll overlook their game;
A petted kitten hums and purrs,
A woman is the same!

—S. J. Moritz.

WHEN PASSION RULES

Soft ring the bells when brides are blessed
And grooms in full dress feel undressed,
And holy words their vows have stressed—
For passion rules!

With lifted lips, the scarlet rose
Still seeks the sun, repels repose,
Denies the night, and will not close—
For passion rules!

The silvered sighs that wash the waves
Are but the moon, who cries and raves
For long lost love. Ah, but she braves
Where passion rules!

Who hears the hush of nectared night,
Still feels the fire of lost daylight,
And sees his soul in fearful flight,
Is passion ruled!

S. J. Moritz.

Why I'm an Air Force Pilot

"I guess it began when I was just a kid, making non-stop flights around the dining-room table. Later on, the town got an airport. I got to know every plane, right down to the smallest bolts and screws.

"During the war I took off with the Aviation Cadets. The folks were all for it. They figured—correctly—that it was the best way to get me into the air where I belonged.

"I made it all right. Trained in the best planes the Air Force has, and now I'm heading for transition work in jets. The pay? Now that I'm a pilot, $336 a month, plus $500 for each year of active duty. And there's plenty of room for promotions.

"But that's not the real point. Some men belong in the air. They were born wanting wings—with the action, the pride, the freedom that go with them. There's no better way to have all that, along with the world's finest flying training, than to join the Aviation Cadets. And the future—in civilian aviation or in the Air Force—is as wide open as the horizon. If you want the fast-moving life, why not drop around to the Recruiting Station in your community or the nearest Air Force installation."

Parade of Opinion

Fellow Students:

In recent months there has been a lot of talk concerning a football team on our campus next year, and many of you have signed a petition stating that you would support such a team.

The argument about sports in college has been going on for years, and I won't try to resolve it in one letter by citing reasons why we should have a team. I am convinced that sports belong on the campus of the American college, and that we should have a football team on our particular campus. We can have a successful sports program in our school if the students and administration both want it and cooperate in putting it across. This cooperation must be whole-hearted and sincere from both quarters.

We, as students, should recognize that we cannot have a larger sports program by talking about it among ourselves. If we really want this program we can aid our cause in several ways—some are petitions such as the one which has already been circulated, letters to the Scribe and local papers, and MAINLY by supporting the program now in effect.

Support by the students is vital to the success of any program, and this statement is most true in the case of a sports program. Any team will play extra well when they have the open and active support of a group of followers. It is sad to say, but this support seems to be somewhat lacking in our school. We have a basketball team that has been exceptionally successful so far this season, and it should not take any urging to have every student attend as many games as possible. The attendance at games has been fair, but it is nowhere near as large as it could be for a school of this size.

Support by the students is half the story; the other half is a properly planned, year-round program. A year-round program cannot be planned or executed without the aid of a full time athletic director, who is free to run an independent athletic office. College sports are expensive, and it seems to be good business to protect any investment in them by having the man in charge free to devote full time to his job. The director of this program should be able to work in conjunction with other offices in the school to have player's class schedules arranged, so that they can attend all practice sessions with a minimum of effort, and without the necessity of cutting class.

Most students realize the problems connected with getting the new University of Bridgeport off on the right foot, and are willing to make allowances for the hard job that is facing the school officials at present. All we ask is that the proposal of expanded sports be given honest and careful consideration before a final decision is made.

Sincerely,
MATTY MORRIS

The D's Have It In New Quality Point Change

In a recent memorandum to the Scribe, Mr. Walter A. Wannerstrom, Recorder, announced that a revised 4-3-2-1 schedule of quality points, effective at once, for the Fall Term, has been approved.

An "A" will now carry four quality points, a "B" three, a "C" two, and a "D" one. Any mark below a "D" will not carry any quality points. This upward revision means that a grade point ratio of three or better is required for honors, while a grade point ratio under two may result in a student's being placed on probation.

P.S. It's Your Dance
... and only $1.50

Dear Editor:

Managers of the Hotel Stratfield and the Longshore Country Club and the captain of the boat used by students for a moonlight sail last August have made complimentary remarks concerning the conduct of University of Bridgeport students. These people have gone out of their way to inform the University and others how pleased they have been at these University of Bridgeport functions, so it is with pleasure that I pass on these remarks.

—Wendell Kellogg.

In a school as large as the University of Bridgeport, there is enough work in extra-curricular activities for every member of the student body. However, there are a few persons doing all the work while the majority do all the griping. This situation, as the saying goes, leaves much to be desired.

The honor society of the university should be the first to offer the aid of its members to the social activities. Very few members of Phi Theta Kappa seem interested in forwarding the welfare of the school and the student body. With attitudes like this, the school will never be what it is intended to be—one of the best schools in the East.

Several things can be named as the cause of poor student activities, but chief among these is inconsiderate griping. Persons, able to help these functions, who instead do nothing more constructive than to hold a cup of "Joe" in the lounge, while knocking down the efforts of others, are the bane of any social event. The only manner in which anything may be improved is through active participation. The next time you hear any gripes about some affair, stop, to ask yourself what the person doing the griping did to help the affair. If you do the abusing the next time, stop, to ask yourself what you, or your particular group, contributed.

AN ODE TO MY ERASER

Little Miss Pencil
Hopped on a stencil
To watch the words go by:
Came Mr. Eraser
Who deftly displaced her.
Then, glancing around, with a cry,
He pounced on a word
That looked simply absurd.
And with smugness born of the able,
He turned into "60"
A paper worth "50."
And, satisfied, slipped from the table.

Music Notes

By G. CLEF

Playing before a full house, Yehudi Menuhin, world-famous violinist, presented a most successful concert at the Klein Memorial, January 5.

His program was well chosen, ranging from the technically difficult piece "Chaconne" from Partita No. 2 in D Minor by Bach, to the familiar and well-loved "Habanera" by Ravel. Other works on the program included "The Spring Sonata," by Beethoven, "Concerto No. 1 in D Major, Opus 6" by Paganini; "Hungarian Dances No. 15 in A Minor and No. 16 in G Minor," by Brahms; and "Scherzo Tarantelle," by Wieniawski.

After a tumultuous applause, Mr. Menuhin played two encores, "Caprice Chinola," by Kriesler and to fully complete the evening the ever-enchanting "Hora Staccata," by Dicu.

Coming musical events feature the Connecticut Symphony's 4th concert, January 21, which will include, among other works, Beethoven's "5th Symphony"; and the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo on January 23. Both are to be at the Klein Memorial.

Two fine musical programs occurring on such dates as to make coverage impossible, were the Don Cossack Chorus at the Klein on Friday, January 9 and Jose Iturbi's concert at the Arena in New Haven on Monday.

From our knowledge of current higher educational practices and from the statements and recommendations of the deans from other institutions who served as consultants in the setting up of our senior colleges, we know definitely that all of our upper division work is on a thoroughly sound basis. Therefore, students who are planning to apply for admission to a graduate school need have no fears regarding admission if the quality of their work here makes them worthy of admission. The excellent reputation of the Junior College of Connecticut and the knowledge that the University of Bridgeport is accredited by the State Department of Education, plus the personal acquaintanceship which several of our faculty and administrators have with officials in other universities, will assure our qualified students of acceptance into graduate schools.

Because we are so new in our university organization, however, it is important that all students who plan to continue their education in graduate schools work very closely with the deans of their own colleges. The application of a student to a graduate school should be initiated by the dean and not by the student himself. This procedure is very effective as the dean is able to give the schools full information about our institution as well as about the applicant.

Students who have any questions regarding this matter should feel perfectly free to address their queries to me, to Vice President Littlefield, or to their respective deans. Such students and others with problems of any sort are cordially invited and even urged to visit any of our administrators in their offices. If we are unable to see you the moment you call, we will make definite appointments at an early mutually convenient time.

Unless further questions are raised regarding this matter, the next in this series of articles will be devoted to a discussion of grading standards and practices.
